University opens orthopedic hospital in Columbia
By Associated Press
4:00 AM CDT, May 28, 2010

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri Health Care system has opened a new orthopedic surgery center in Columbia.

The $55.5 million Missouri Orthopaedic Institute is near the existing health care complex along Stadium Boulevard. The building includes 45 examination rooms, five operating rooms and 16 inpatient beds.

The surgical center will have more than 20 orthopedic surgeons from University Physicians who specialize in sports medicine, joint replacement and pediatrics.