Tight Senate race prompts provocative visit by anti-abortion group at MU
Columbia Missourian – October 10, 2018
A visiting anti-abortion group that tours with an exhibit of graphic images of aborted fetuses drew supporters and opponents Wednesday to Speakers Circle at MU.
Similar stories ran in the Columbia Daily Tribune and on KOMU News.

The Moon Eclipsed the Sun. Then the Bees Stopped Buzzing.
The New York Times – October 10, 2018
Researchers at the University of Missouri, along with a small army of elementary school children and other volunteers, collected audio recordings of honeybees, bumblebees and other types of bees as they visited flowers along the path of totality. Similar stories ran internationally and nationally, including The Boston Globe and Newsweek.

MU study: Low retake rates on entrance exams impact college success*
KOMU.com - October 10, 2018
A recent University of Missouri study shows nearly 50 percent of high school students are unaware that they can take college-entrance exams, like the SAT and ACT, more than once.

Residence halls, atrium to be dedicated on Homecoming Weekend*
Columbia Missourian – October 10, 2018
Two residence halls and an atrium named after three African-Americans who made their marks on MU will be dedicated as part of homecoming festivities.

EXTENDED INTERVIEW: MU expert talks mental health
ABC 17 News - October 10, 2018
University of Missouri Health Care doctor John Lauriello spoke with ABC 17 News about advancement that have been made in treatment and in social perception of mental health issues.

Bad News for People Who Can’t Remember Names
The Atlantic - October 10, 2018
"It’s such a big deal to admit that you don’t remember a person,” says Laura King, a psychologist at the University of Missouri who has separately studied the social consequences of forgetting.

The People vs. the U.S. Senate
The Atlantic - October 10, 2018
Malapportionment is unconstitutional in the United States, says the University of Missouri political scientist Peverill Squire, except when it applies to the Senate, and that creates a power imbalance that belies the psephological maxim: Land doesn’t vote.

Spectroscopy shines new light on blood glucose levels in diabetics
The Engineer (London-based monthly magazine) - October 11, 2018
Researchers from the University of Missouri School of Medicine and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) recently evaluated the accuracy of the MIT-developed technology.

Can local news join the digital age?
Columbia Journalism Review - October 10, 2018
Damon Kiesow, former director of product for McClatchy and currently Knight chair at University of Missouri School of Journalism, likens local journalism’s problem with tech to a kind of “bigotry of low expectations,” though he acknowledges that larger companies have advantages that smaller, nimble ones do not.

‘How did I get here?’ NBA player Keyon Dooling discusses overcoming dark past
Columbia Missourian – October 10, 2018
Former MU basketball and NBA player Keyon Dooling showed students during a discussion Wednesday that nobody is immune from personal struggles or above asking for help.

Man convicted in 2016 Mizzou rape case expected to be sentenced Wednesday
ABC 17 News - October 11, 2018
Campbell was convicted in August for raping a victim in her Mizzou dorm room in 2016. Campbell was a freshman at the university at the time.

MU Health Care makes major donation to Southern Boone YMCA - Boone County Journal
Boone County Journal - October 10, 2018
University of Missouri Health Care has committed $450,000 to the Southern Boone Area YMCA toward the capital campaign for its new facility in Ashland, Missouri.

Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield Adds University of Missouri Health Care to Its Medicare Advantage Provider Network
Associated Press - October 11, 2018
As part of this commitment, Anthem and University of Missouri Health Care (MU Health Care) announced today that Anthem will be adding MU Health Care to its preferred list of care providers for its Medicare Advantage plans.

‘It takes a community’: Women in engineering rally to extinguish burnout
Columbia Missourian – October 10, 2018
How can women minimize stress and avoid burnout in the workplace? Keeping multiple calendars, traveling and separating work from your personal life are all ways to keep stress at bay, according to five panelists at a MU College of Engineering event on Wednesday.

Boone County voter registration up 10,000 from 2014
KOMU.com - October 10, 2018
Although there were many celebrities coming out and urging people to vote, there was no real change in mid-Missouri. Annalee Roustio, a junior at the University of Missouri, said that these celebrities should keep on posting.

University of Missouri-Kansas City

Celebrating the UMKC-China Relationship*
UMKC Today – October 10, 2018
The biennial Edgar Snow Symposium returned to Kansas City with an array of events celebrating the 36-year-old partnership between the Kansas City-based Edgar Snow Memorial Foundation and the Beijing-based China Society for People’s Friendship Studies.

Rodriguez Recognized as Outstanding Librarian*
UMKC Today – October 10, 2018
Sandy Rodriguez, head of digital archives and stewardship at UMKC, will receive the 2018 Missouri Library Association Outstanding Professional Librarian Award October 10 at the MLA Annual Conference in Columbia, Missouri.

UMKC Conservatory students gear up for a huge performance
KCTV5 – October 9, 2018
Bill Hurrelbrink took a trip to the school to learn about its renowned jazz program and to see how the students there are preparing for their big school fundraiser.

UMKC Theatre presents “Women”
University News – October 9, 2018
It is rare that you see a cast so thoroughly enjoy themselves in a play that it makes you enjoy the play too. UMKC’s production of “Women” is one of those plays.

New LGBTQIA programs and services assistant director encourages inclusivity
University News – October 9, 2018
After attending graduate school at Missouri State University, the new Assistant Director of LGBTQIA Programs and Services, Kari Jo Freudigmann, is returning to the area for a new opportunity.

Edgar Snow Foundation Banquet celebrates past and future relations with China
University News – October 10, 2018
In 1936, Kansas City native and journalist Edgar Snow went to China with one mission: show people back home China’s communist revolution through a non-western perspective. The event featured speakers from both the U.S. and China, including UMKC Chancellor C. Mauli Agrawal and UM President Mun Choi.

Missouri University of Science and Technology

Missouri S&T researchers win multimillion-dollar grant to build fast-charging stations for electric cars*
Researchers from Missouri University of Science and Technology and three private companies will combine their expertise to create charging stations for electric vehicles that could charge a car in less than 10 minutes – matching the time it takes to fill up a conventional vehicle with gasoline.

The Missouri S&T University Police, along with Missouri S&T's Tau Kappa Epsilon, is hosting a 5K run and walk event in support of St. Jude Children’s Research Hospital. All proceeds from the event will be donated.

Missouri S&T is offering "Introduction to Paint Formulation" May 20-24, 2019 (Spring 2019). This course is intended to give attendees a fundamental knowledge of how to approach a starting formulation and troubleshoot it. It involves both lecture and laboratory work. The course is held on the Rolla, Missouri, campus. For more information, visit http://coatings.mst.edu. To register, e-mail mstformulation@mst.edu or call 573/341.4419.

"It was a very simple thing, but it was very moving to walk up and hear them talk about me and what I meant to the organization," said Pope, Curators’ Distinguished Professor emeritus in counseling and family therapy programs at the University of Missouri–St. Louis. "Then to get a big standing ovation from everybody that was there was so moving. I couldn’t say much. I was getting kind of choked up. I did just say ‘thank you,’ and that it was one of the most meaningful awards I had ever received, because it came from this particular group that was so important to me both in my personal and professional lives.”

The St. Louis innovation center was created in 2002, thanks to an initial investment of $29 million from Washington University, BJC HealthCare, the University of Missouri–St. Louis, Saint Louis University and the Missouri Botanical Garden, the St. Louis Business Journal reports. The 200-acre district has spurred more than $500 million in development and includes a mix of retail, residential, office and green space.

On Friday, October 19, 2018, the VISION conference returns to St. Louis at the J.C. Penney Conference Center at the University of Missouri–St. Louis. VISION 2018 is St. Louis’ annual conference for women, minorities, immigrants and anyone interested in starting or growing a business in science, IT, or manufacturing.
More than four decades after that encounter, Miller is among the institution’s scholars whose complaints of "boorish behavior" prompted the college to ban Arato from campus this fall semester, except while teaching and working with graduate students.

Story generated by efforts of the university’s PR team.